THE DIACH OF THE BATTERY.

Russian Correspondent's

Unnerving Experience. The destruction of a Russian battery in one of the recent engagements is thus doscribed by M. Namirovitch Danchenko, the well known novelist and special correspondent of the Russki Slove and Associated

* Can anything, he says, be more torrible

than the death of a whole section of an army under your eyes when you see the process of destruction and are unable to do anything whatever to prevent it? It was impossible to leave the 4th Battery on its old position-s hill cutting through our centre, where only two insignificant battalions were stretched over a distance of two and three-quarter versts. Two Japanese batteries loomed in front of ours. They were perfectly covered, while our 4th Battery stood quits open before them. The enemy turned two guns upon our left flank, and began to thunder, unseen by us, from the remainder of his guns against our 4th-Battery, of which they had become tired. At half-past ten it was still working, The rattle of its quick-firing guns did not. allow me to define whether the Japanese had machine guns or not. Others heard them: I could not catch these regular merciless sounds. To see as we did yesterday the flat top of its hill, and on it the black small lines of the guns-eight lines. eight ammunition boxes behind them on the slope. Underneath them something black is scattered. It is the screen. Fire flashes and small white clouds appear now and then from the black lines either from each separately or in volleys. All at once the battery becomes silent. The enemy thunder at it from the other side. No. acswer. We become strangely excited. What does this silence mean? Black spots are running in all directions on the yellow platform-they ard bustling, some important movement is taking place. something sudden. Why are the guns silent, why do they not answer? Thank Heaven! There is a crack of one gun of another, of a third. They have hurled NO. 10, KNUTSFORD TERRACE, their deficient shells upon the emeny. volley, a second, a third! It seems im-THE HONGKONG LAND INVEST. possible, from here, that the Japanese can withstand such a fire. A minute, another, 1833 and they will be silonced. We wait for this with beating hearts. It seems to us somehow that such an end would only be justice, nothing else. We follow the smoke of the explosion in the opposite OFFICES in Nos. 10 and 16, DES side. These are our shells exploding, and scattering away, as we imagine, scores, hundreds of the enemy. The 4th Battery, so suddenly revived, does not cease firing. -it thunders incessantly, and all the black slopes send back the echoes in a dull, disconnected fashion. The echaescarry the sounds far, far away to where the other batteries in their turn roar at the enemy's position. The soldiers look round with a self-satisfied air, 'That's how we work; they will know us.' We. none of us guess that the unfortunate 4th Battery is now struggling for its life, counting its last minutes, spending the last atom of its force. Black spots continue to run from the ammunition boxes to the black lines. Our steel jaws roar to the utmost. We are far from guessing the despair, the death agony, in this thunder. But what is this? Never and it is my second war-did I see anything like it. The Japanese guns liave lifted their black muzzles from behind the creats that surrounded them, and have set to work to destroy this unhappy yellow hill, with its tiny black lines. black spots, and black cubes, from which innumerable black tendrils are now. trailing. It is any orgy of exterminating fire! I look with anguish in my heart. The screen from under the hills is dispersing in all directions. Is it possible? Is there really a force in the world capable of compelling our men to move away? Yes there is, and there it is before me. Something indiscribably terrible Scores of shrapnel cases explode at the same time above the doomed battery. Scores of fires flash from the white clouds, scores of small clouds melt into a larger one, shutting from us the unfortunate flat space, the black lines and black spots. The awful business of the Japanese gunners is not interrupted for a moment. Innumerable grenades break anew into a triumphant chorus. They dig into the soil of the hilt and throw up brown masses of cloud that appear to be tinged with blood, Those masses are a on merged into one, shutting out from us a hell that is celebrating its cruel victory there. Everything bacomesconfused and mingled - it is impossible to distinguish anything. It appears as though hundreds of the breaking dragons, such as the Chinese believe in have broken away from their chains and accomplishing their wicked purpose behind that brown curtain under the murky shades of the explosion, We still distinguish in this pitchy smoke the rare answering rays of 'our' fire, the dull sounds of our shots. There the flying battery resounds with the volley. Another ! It will struggle on; it will silence them. We edily! We pass from despair more space, and it will fire. Where does the force? What does it matter that bullets are now whistling near our heads, that the fee is firing at us from some unknown place, that two soldiers have already fallen close by, There a whole battery is coming to an end amid terrible convulsions God be praised It is possible that the forces of the Japanese have failed them. The black lines are powerless and elent. No black spots are discernible, and the little cubes are moving downwards. The battery itself is buried under heaps of shrapnel fragments and the debris of shell; there is not a free space. It was necessary what could be saved, to take off the gunlocks and temove the ammunition boxes. The removal of the guns could not be thought of. No horses could enter this holl and emergo alive. I looked long at this bur al place of dead guns. Their lives were short but noisy-perhaps more to be envied than the slow existence of others that are now being dragged along the dust abandoned guns lie like corpaes in the yellow sand, covered by lead, cast iron, and steel. New black spots are rapidly approaching them from the other side. They move, collect, disperse along the edge of the flat space, open fire upon our centre, if we may call a centre two battalions stretched along two and three quarter versts.

He came to South Africa to make his fortune, and not being content to wait until something turned up turned ; up someting himself, and a very good to n up it was, viz , dismur da When Mr Rh. des left , England to seek I is fortune here he had youth on his side, but not good health. How he succeeded in winning good heath and an immense fortune all the world knows. But note that the good bealth come first. That is the pater I, the in viable order : bealth first, and wealth secon , third, fourth, perhaps not at a l -but hea th first, always. What is the matter with the Micauber family that accounts for their failure in everything they undertake? Of ronic laziness, you say. Yes, truly ; but why chronically lazy? We will undertake to disgress the povelist's great creation, and as est with ren fideno that Mr Micawher suffered from indigestion. That theory at once accounts for his love of ease, his want of energy, and fatal habit of letting the world slide.

· For many years, writes Mr Veeluda Rossonw (who lives back of Saville Engineering Works, Jeppes Town, Johannesburg), in a letter dated April 4th, 1904, I suffered from acute indigestion. All the symptoms of that distressing complaint were present, some of them in a very aggravated form. From time to time my appetite almost ceased; and when I did ear, it always produced pain at the chest. Severe headaches, and pains in the stomach and between the shoulder blades, were so incessant that at times I became quite light-headed; specks used to appear before my eyes and everything seemed to be turning round.

Alarmed at the serious state of my health, I Hot and Cold Water throughout. tripl a great number of medicines that were resommended by one and another of my friends, but obtained no more than temporary relief from the best of them. When, however, at length, I tried Mother Beigel's Curative Syrup (the worldrenowned remedy of which Messis A. J. While, Colonial, Ltd. corner of Princes and Diesel Streets, Port + lizabeth, Cape Octony, are proprietors), all this changed. A few days after I first began to take the Syrup, I perceived a we come retu n of appetite. The pains from which I had so long suffered began to decrease, and gradually left me until they were gone cutirely. Now, after a short course of the medicine, I am as well as ever I was in my life, and gratefully recommend the means of my

- For sapping energy, and transforming the young into the old, indigestion is not to be matched in a catalogue of all the diseases. The number of people who have learned this truth from painful experience is legion. Here is another of them Mrs B Sooble of Commissioner Street, Johannesburg-who writes thus on 19th April, 1994; For many years I was without proper appetite, and suffered greatly from eleeplessness. The doctors who attended me shid that mine was a case of general debility; but I fear they did not correctly understand it, for they were unable to do me any good. That was a task reserved for Mother Seigel's Curative DLUNKET'S GAP Syrup, When, acting upon advice, I began to take that web lerful remedy, it at once became plear to me that my troubles were marry over. ## MAIL STEAMER DEPARTURES.

The following table is a chronologically arranged list of mail steamer sailings to Europe, America, Canada, and Australia. Coast ports, Manila, and Japan are not given, for steamers are constantly sailing for those ports. All the American steamers call at Japan, and the majority of the Australian boats call at Manila, and, in addition to those vessels, special steamers run there. The departure of every steamer is subject to alteration. The P. & O. mails usually reach London in about 28 days, and the French and German in about 28 or 30 days.

HONOKONG, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1904. THE CARDIFF COAL SUPPLY. The enormous amount of coal which is now finding its way from the Weish to foreign—and especially fore long, be embroiled in troubles simi-Russian-bunkers, makes one wonders! whether Great Britain is doing a very good stroke of business after all in al_ lowing the export to continue in such a wholesale fashion. And it further gives rise to the belief that she is infringing neutrality agreements by not probibiting the priceless steaming coal of Cardiff from being sold to firms for use in fuelling the Baltic fleet on its proposed run to the East, or in fuelling Japanese vessels. It is the good fortune of Great Britain to have within her dominion the most valuable steaming coal to be found in the world, and it is questionable if it is right to the nation that the supply should be threatened by the continuous hawing of it for distribution to whoever comes along for it. What is the use of having a good thing if you are going to allow every Dick, Tom, and Harry of a Power to have as much as he likes of it? In time of war Peking which states that two mandarins, with another great naval power we will want all the smokeless and smoky steaming coal we can put our hands upon, but the possession of the field will not be much to our advantage if the power we might be in conflict with has taken time by the forelock and procured in peaceful days sufficient of the same Shum occupies to-day is not one that material to last her during a protracted struggle. Direct shipments to the Baltic and Far East for Russia totalled in 1903 293,000 tons, and in the present year to August 31, 265,000 tons. Of the total, threequarters has been shipped to the Baltic. A careful computation of the total amount of steam coul shipped from Cardiff to the belligerents from the beginning of 1903 to the end of August, 1904, brings it out at 2,282,737 tons, and of this amount

At Port Arthur.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8,

In spite of repeated reverses the Japanese are gradually advancing their lines nearer and nearer the garrison's line of defences at Port Arthur.

While assaults have not been entirely discontinued they are now isolated and much more caution is shown in attack. In places, particularly on the western side of the citadel, the Japanese, have secured positions which enable them to throw shells into the barbour.

On Friday one of these shells fell on the deck of one of the Russian warships, name unknown, and exploding, is said to have caused great damage. It is believed an early escape will be attempted by the Russian fleet.

No More Retreats.

Contentment is my strongest feature-I am a most contented creature. My friends do grub, and moil, and sweat And long for things they ne'er will get. While I sit in my garden plot Contented just with what I've get. One needs so little. It is sad To seb men after wealth run mad. A small house, decent-ordered, quiet, A cook with some idea of diet. (On soup, fish, entrée, joint, and cheese, I am content to dine, but these Are scarce enough to lay before Such guests as enter my poor door).

The smallest garden will suffice To give one pleasure, and entice One from the little library Of well selected books. I see No pleasure in long miles of glass, Armies of gardeners, and the crass Pride in self-grown peach or pine. (The fruit on this poor heard of mine All comes from the greengrocer's stall.)

I have no patience-none at all-With those who wander far and wide In search of horn, and hoof, and hide ; Enough for me is my grouse moor, Some salmon-fishing, and a tour Now and again through France, or week In town whence I return to seek With joy the country's true delight, The peaceful days, the restful night; The rustic sports of golf and hunting, The pheasant shooting, skating, punting, And such like simple, homely trolics Are good enough for rude bucolies And me, who ain content with all

I have, although the all be small. What you deserve you'll get. And you Will get no more than is your due.

GIRLS ARE THREATENED

By Consumption When Anamia Shows IN PALE AND BLOODLESS LIPS.

DR WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PROPLE CURE AN AMIA JUST AS FOOD CURES HUNGER.

Anamia shows in the face, the appetite, the walk. Pale, Bloodless lips, dult eyes, aching limbs and back, preathlessness, fatigue are the signs. The Anamic girl starves for want of Blood She cannot digest her food. Her development is checked. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People make new Blood, cure Ansemia, prevent Consumption, assist Development.

MAISS CISSIE COGGLE, 45, Montague-M street, Prescot-street, Liverpool, is a girl who was threatened by death from Consumption, and has survived to become a noble specimen of healthy English womanhood, thanks to Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. From her infancy she had suffered from Anaemia; that is to my she had never had enough blood.

Miss Coggle whom Dr Williams' Pink Pills Change, for Bangkok. for Pale People changed from a weak fragile | Grang-nam, for Newchwang. airl into a he Ithy, active and robust woman.

She had taken topics for years; and tonics did her no good. Probably the end would have been that she would have drifted into a decline, become Consumptive, and died. It was food that her blood needed; and Dr Williams' Pink Fills are the food of the blood

There can be little doubt that they saved her life; and it is quite certain that they changed her from a weak and puny girl into a healthy, blooming woman.

What she says of herself gives the clue to ber state of misorable ill health, and any girl who suffers in the same way as Miss Parrish, and Accords. Coggle will realise what Or Williams' tink Fills are capable of. These are her words: - 'I was very Appnic I had lost all my colour. I always relt languid. The least walk put me out of breath, and I was generally fit for nothing. I had such pulpitations of the heart that I could not get unstairs without resting two or three times on the way. My father suggested that I should try Dr Williams Pink Pills for Pale pe ple, Other tonics had done me no good. I never seemed to have any blood in me. But Dr Williams' Pink Pill gave me blood. I had finished the first bottle (efore kny great change occurred but I kept on with them, and soon began to feel stronger. We have never had doctor in the h use since. My heart no longer troubles me; and although I gave up taking the pills six months ago, because I no longer needed them, I have continued well, and am alring enough for any av-

Such a case a this deserves public at tention. Thousands of people are miserable and weak purely from want of sufficient blood. Men as well as Women have been benefited by Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. No one has over been bonefited by a substitute; and readers will therefore be wise if the, take great pains to obtain only the genume pills, hearing Dr. Williams' name on Dr Williams' registered From Bangkok October 6th, strong N.E. package. If there is any diffic ity in obtaining at Medicine Sh que, Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Hollors viaduct, L. ndon, will send a bottle post free for 2s. 9d., or six hottles for 13s. 9d. The genuine pills "have cured all disorders arising from anway erished blood, anamia, rickets, scrofula, 'decline,' consumption, indigestion, palpriations, rheumatism, sciatios, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, locomotor ataxy, neuralgis, and disturbances of the nervous system. They cure by making new blood. They are not a purgative. On the contrary, they increase the strength, improve the appetite, and make pale and sickly people well and
